A good software engineer would code it in a way you don't have to worry about leaving enough coin to pay for the fee. Basically you just enter $3 you have in coins then the app calculates on its own to transfer only let say $2.97 and keep $0.03 as their pay. It is a junk software. A good merchant would make it easy for their customers.

A private key is like a password a string of letters and numbers that allows you to access and manage your crypto funds. When you first buy cryptocurrency, you are issued two keys: a public key, which works like an email address (meaning you can safely share it with others, allowing you to send or receive funds), and a private key, which is typically a string of letters and numbers (and which is not to be shared with anyone).
